About the ABEEL Foundation

The Alliance of Black Employee Experience and Leadership (ABEEL) Foundation stemmed from an employee-led group at the EllisDon Corporation in response to a lack of diversity in both professional organizations and the pathways available to youth on their way into the workforce. Now, as a volunteer-run independent foundation, the organization continues to raise awareness and promote education on how we can stop racism within professional organizations and the communities these organizations serve.

The foundation's services provide connections to opportunities for youth in under-served and underrepresented BIPOC communities (with a particular focus on Black youth), and creates a space for cross-cultural dialogues and education within communities, schools and the partnering corporate organizations.

At the ABEEL Foundation, we strongly believe that simultaneously empowering and educating present and future generations is instrumental in creating a society that is more diverse, equitable and inclusive.

Shaping the Future Sponsorship Program

Using their preferred means of expression, students will demonstrate their vision of a future without racism and hate. A future with space for cultural pride and feelings of self-worth through an embrace of the Black experience. Students will work in teams of 1-5 to prepare their submissions, strong participation of Black students within these teams is encouraged. The Shaping the Future Sponsorship Program offers the following supports to program participants:

- Scholarships and financial supports for post-secondary education to participants based on evaluation of program submissions;
- Coordination between participants and mentors from various industries;
- Access to virtual learning series, training programs, workshops, co-op programs, or internships via sponsoring organizations;
- Access to social programming addressing mental health and social skill development.

The Shaping the Future Sponsorship Program aims to tear down racial barriers and empower youth by fostering a sense of community and belonging, and by providing access to opportunities they may not otherwise have had. Efforts are aimed at effecting long term change through the provision of access and tools that inspire a foundational shift for one's personal and professional future.

The program offers layers of support with a focus on youth advocacy, employability, and mental health access to participating students.

Award Ceremony

The annual Shaping the Future Sponsorship Program Award Ceremony provides an opportunity to share creative resources developed by participants, discuss the causes and consequences of racism and hate, and create connections and space for conversations between equity-seeking groups and industry leaders from partnering corporate organizations.

Testimonials

"The co-op experience has been very valuable for me. I struggled to see how my education could become a career. I found the industry daunting before but now seeing it first-hand, I can envision myself here in the future. I got to meet a lot of good people, it was an incredible learning experience."

ELLISDON HIGH SCHOOL CO-OP STUDENT

"This program gave me the opportunity to really sit down, and write a poem about everything I've ever wanted to say, and it gave me the chance to accept myself for who I am." STUDENT

"Recognizing trauma often takes decades; and racism is definitely a form of trauma, one that can have a significant effect on mental health. It's good for people of colour to share their stories and vision for the future, it's an important part of healing." STUDENT

"A great initiative that allows our Black students in particular a platform to share their voices and lived experience of being Black in Canada. This initiative is needed as it gives our Black students an avenue to share, participate and be heard nationally." TESS PORTER, COMMUNITY EDUCATION LIAISON WORKER

"Participation in this program will not only impact the lives of the students involved but will also empower the larger communities in which they live and study. We want to inspire and support the next generation of leaders. Together, we can create a new standard for how our fellow Canadians are treated - regardless of how they identify. Diversity can unite and strengthen us, rather than divide and weaken us. Together, we can create a better world for us all."
